

Jane Pack referred to her firstborn son as her “smiling baby boy,” and often said he had “a great capacity for enjoyment.” Below, Mr. Pack’s first home for one year was an apartment in Kenton, Ohio.

Dege Rich,
I hope you are having well.
I am nine years old almost ten
I have press one of your records and I have a whole magazine of you. And I got a lot of articles about you. I have a guitar and am going to start taking lessons. My little brother and I are singing for company and hope

A Love,

Mr. Pack lived most of his childhood at 2222 West Spring Street, on the far west side of Lima, Ohio. It was at this house he gained most of his "painful" painting experience. Note the peak above the porch. Mr. Pack mowed this large lawn beginning at age eight.

RANDALL E. PACK
- - - PORTRAIT OF A MAN WHO WINDS
 "Rat" is a good name for him - but it shouldn't be in the past tense. He's always on the run... full of life and filled with wit. During his days at Whiskard College in Indiana, Pack was a basketball star; during World War II, he was - of all things - a pilot (now in the Army artillery); and today he owns, works with a children, is a civic worker, and was president of his P.T.A. As a father of three children, he manages to stay busy at home, too.

AND OF AN AUTHORITY
 On the job, Pack is just an active and earnest to man in his field. He has received thorough training during his 12 years with Kurfees. With detailed knowledge of paints, from production to sales to customer use. Pack is a top pro, in the best sense of the word. He's an expert on paints and the art of selling, and possesses a sincere interest in helping independent dealers profit by selling Kurfees' complete line of quality paints.
